

WORDS OF THE WISE

Some Things Woman Should Bear in Mind

AFTER SHE BECOMES A BRIDE

Men Love Their Wives Far More Than the Wives Are Apt to Think.

Woman's Corner.

Every bride knows her power; every wife comes to know her weakness. A good proportion of the heartbreaks of early married life is due to the ferment of this knowledge. The poor child whose lover gave up his cigar and his club with such angelic meekness finds that her husband can smoke like a chimney and leave her alone nights in order to spend the evening with his men friends. She imagines that he cares less for her than he did, which is a mistake in most cases. Seven out of ten men love their wives better than their sweethearts. It is simply that their presence is not the absorbing excitement that it was when love was new. The chances are that the wife has become a dozen times more necessary to the man than ever the sweetheart could have been. He would feel her death far more keenly, but he does not need to abridge his heart to "fit" still whenever his fancy summons her image. In short, she has become the bread of existence in place of the elixir. Now, most of us who have sense would prefer to be the bread rather than elixir, but there is no question that more fuss is made over the elixir.

Some Rare Jewels.

The empress of Austria possesses, in addition to the Hapsburg family jewels, which pass from one empress of Austria to the following, a quantity of beautiful private jewels, which she wears when she pleases, whereas the empress first must sign a receipt every time she desires to wear any of the state jewels. The empress' private jewels are principally ly presents from the emperor and other sovereigns and princesses. They were valued a few years ago by an expert at some 2,000,000 guineas, but, considering the superior value and cutting they may be considered worth another million or two of guineas. Of special beauty is a necklace of pearls which the emperor presented her after the birth of the late Queen Prince Rudolph. It consists of three rows of rare and very large pearls, and was then valued at 400,000 guineas, but it is now considered worth at least 300,000 guineas.

Victoria's Big Hands.

The queen of England has a large hand. She takes big gloves. Her fingers are extremely short and out of proportion to the size of her hands. The queen will wear nothing but black gloves. She commenced to wear leather gloves at the beginning of her reign. Today when we shop girls think as body a real lady without white leather gloves. The queen has only two or four, she seldom attempts to confine to fashion. She wears only about two or three pairs of gloves a year. Her pair consists of two pairs of gloves of Great Britain and Ireland and a pair of India in perfectly matching colors. These are a great many fashion girls who are wearing nothing but gloves all the time, up to $100 a year. Many women will spend $200 on gloves during the six months of the season by writing two or three pairs a day.

Powders for Summer Drinks.

Effervescent drinks in powder are hardly to keep in the face of England. There are two powders for them.

Lemon Powder. Take eight ounces of fine sugar, crushed, and steep it in slices of essence of lemon. When the sugar is quite dry put into a dry bowl and add two ounces of citric acid; mix up well and put in a dry, wide-mouthed bottle.

Ginger Powder. — Take one ounce ground ginger, two ounces carbonate of soda, one ounce tartaric acid and eight ounces of loaf sugar, crushed; mix and bottle as before. Both of these powders must be put in a dry bottle and kept tightly corked, and on no account must a wet spoon be used for taking any out. A pickle bottle is much the best to keep them, as it is wide enough at the mouth to admit a spoon. Very often more slips out of the bottle than is required when the powder has to be shaken through a narrow neck.

For Tired Feet.

Walking beats the foot, standing causes them to swell and both are tiresome and exhaustive when prolonged. There are various kinds of foot baths, and authorities differ as to their value. Hot water enlarges the foot by drawing the blood to them; when used they should be rubbed or exercised before attempting to put on a tight boot. Mustard and hot water in a foot bath will sidetrack a fever if taken in time, cure a nervous headache and induce sleep. Bunion, corns and callousness are caused by the pressure of the foot. If not treated, they will refer to you the price paid.
